Learning model

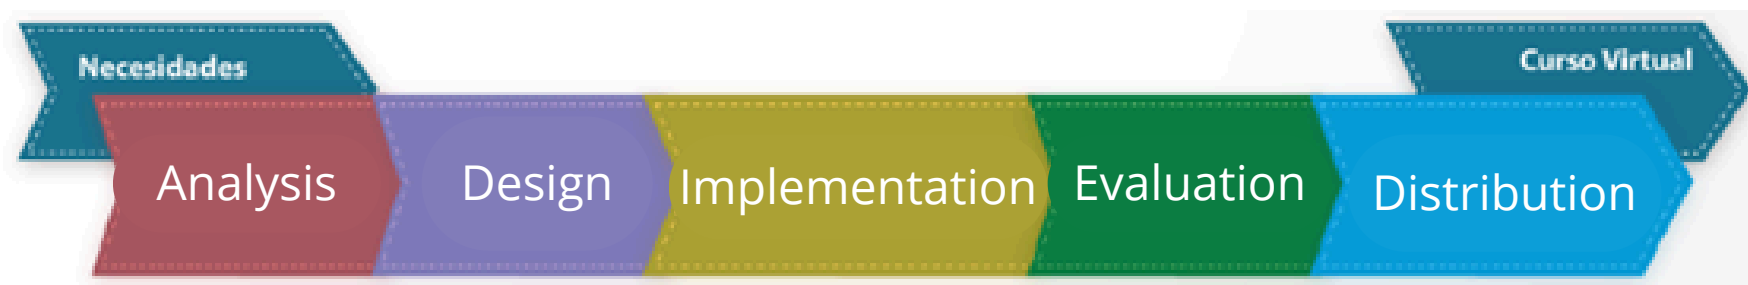

The learning model through virtual media assumes the participant as the active protagonist of his/her formative process. The E-Learning modality (100% virtual) is designed in consideration of different learning styles; this implies the use of various components within the educational multimedia:

Growth

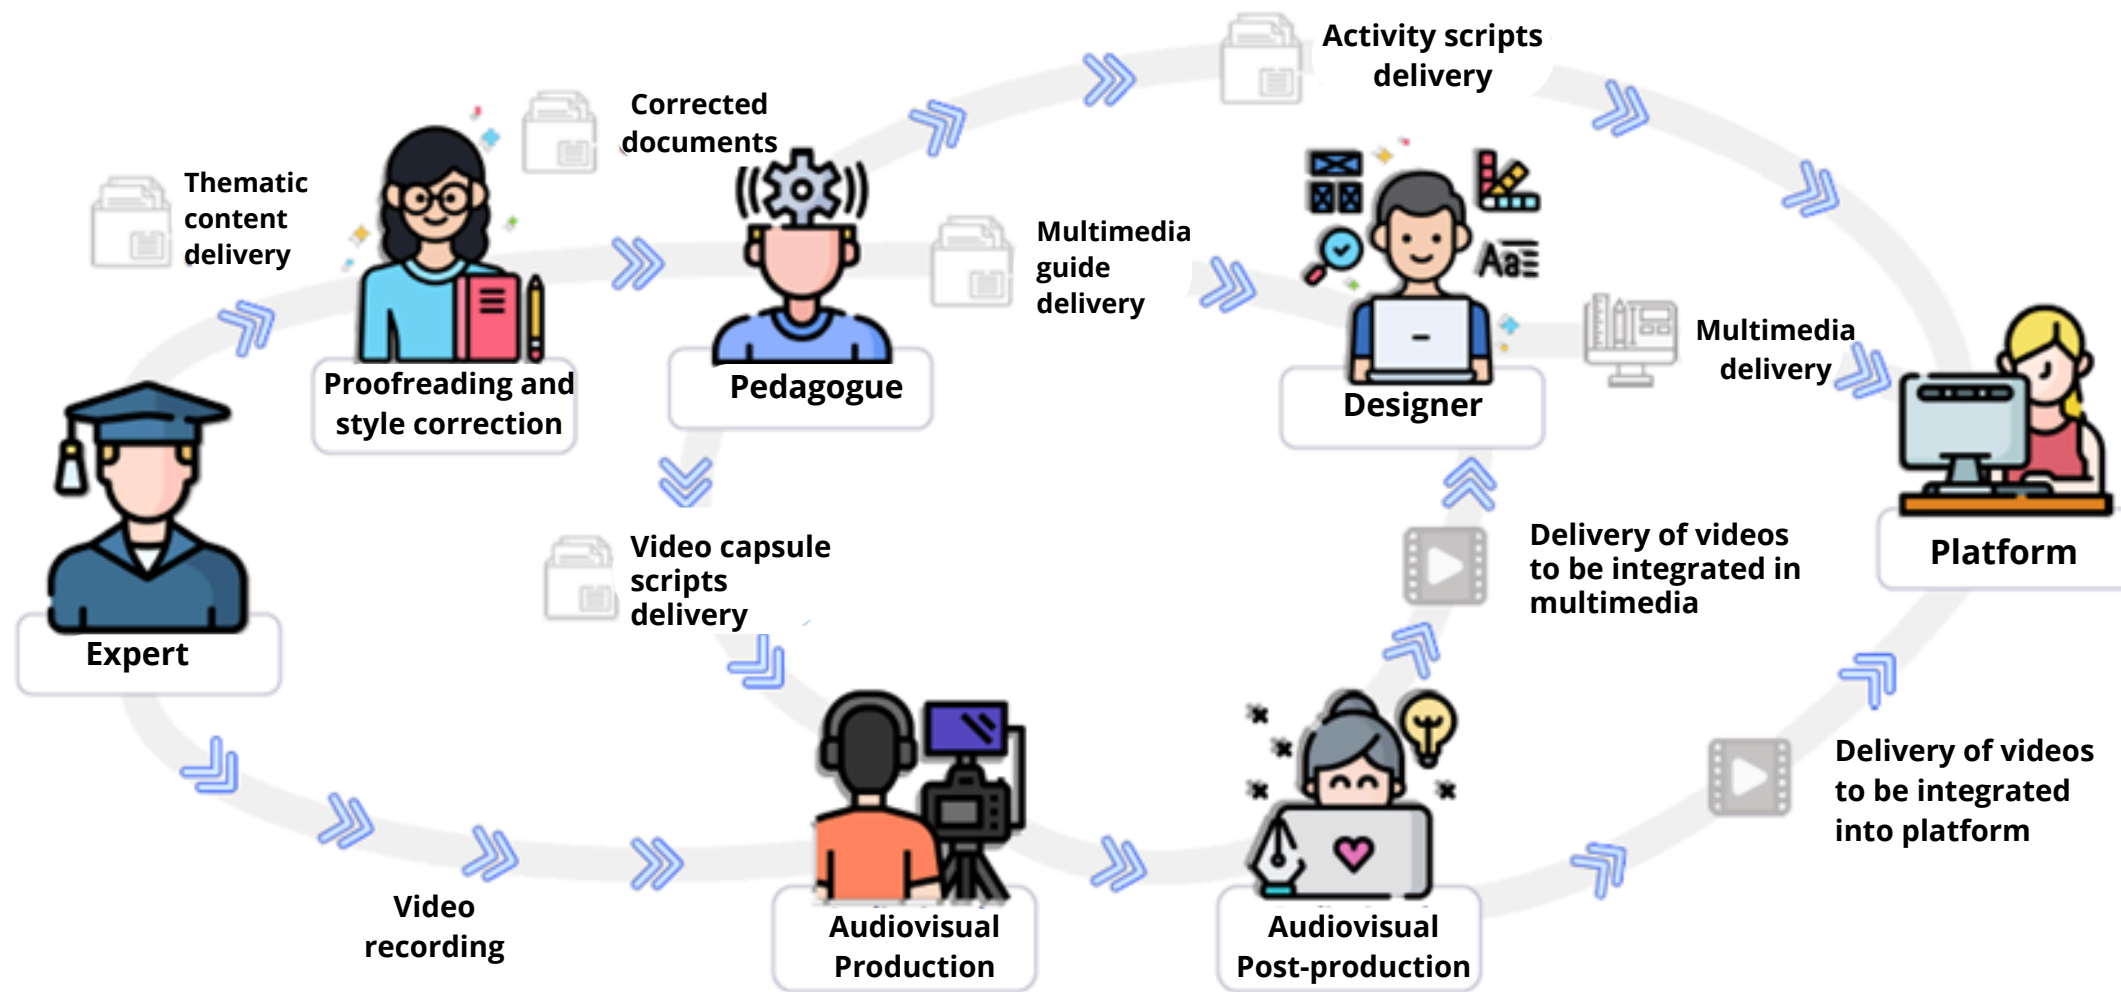

The process of formation and development of the contents and virtual learning objects of each process will be carried out from the thematic axis under the highest standards and the best pedagogical, structural and didactic quality. This methodology establishes both theoretical and practical elements, and integrates elements of different methodological approaches.

As relevant elements of the methodology the following phases are included:
